

Come Grow Your Business in Clarence!

Niagara Produce changes with the times.

A fresh vision for a growing business

When Richard Dorr and family first bought the tiny building at the intersection of Transit and Millersport in Clarence, NY over 52 years ago, he never could have envisioned the eventual growth that would create the iconic Niagara Produce of today.

This popular outlet and wholesale distribution center for fresh produce, greenhouse flowers, Christmas trees, deli products and lawn/garden supplies now stands ready to dramatically expand and modernize its capabilities on the same property.

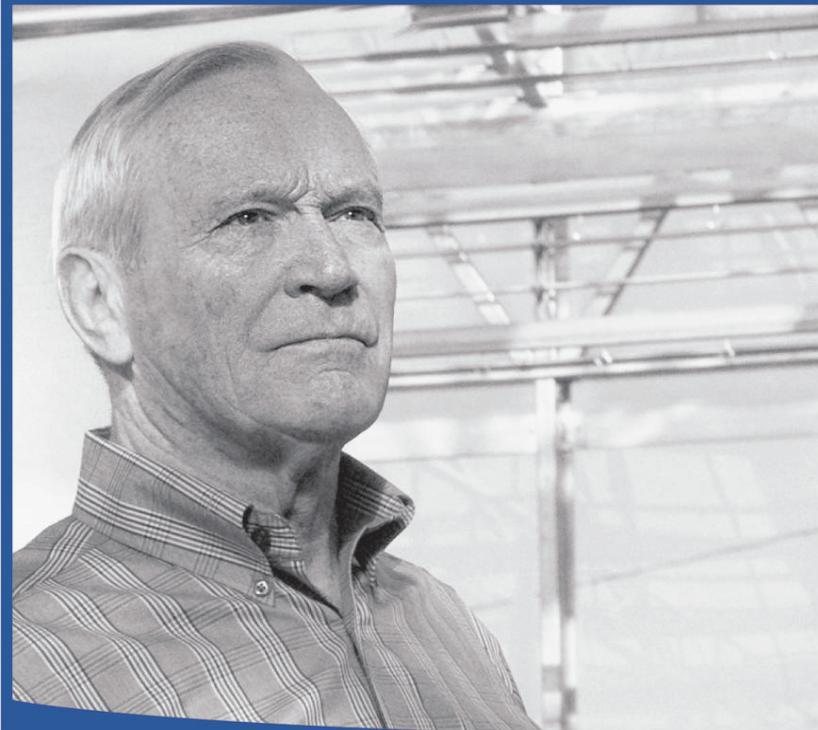

With a state-of-the-art, highly efficient, totally new building and grounds design, including over 20,000 sq. ft. of warehouse storage it will be the most unique business of its kind in WNY. In addition to adding new jobs at the completed facility, this project has stimulated the local economy through the exclusive use of local contractors in its construction.

The Clarence Industrial Development Agency (CIDA) helped make the dream of this large scale business expansion and ultra-modern facility possible through its economic expansion programs. A public benefit corporation, the CIDA promotes and assists private sector industrial and business development.

Expanding on this scale was challenging. Working with the Clarence IDA made the process easier for us.
