

Spindle items

May 21, 2019

ETHAN POWERS
Clarence Editor

ETHAN POWERS

Clarence
Editor

HISTORIC PRESERVATION COMMISSION— The Clarence Historic Preservation Commission currently has four open seats and is looking for an architect.

The commission is devoted to protecting and enhancing the landmarks and historic districts that represent distinctive elements of the Town of Clarence’s historic, architectural, social, economic and cultural heritage. Through the preservation of local historic landmarks, the commission intends to foster civic pride in the accomplishments of the past, protect the town’s attractiveness to visitors, and promote the use of historic districts and landmarks for the education, pleasure and welfare of our residents. Ultimately, preservation efforts help to ensure the harmonious, orderly, efficient growth and development of the town, while safeguarding the crucial historic, aesthetic and cultural heritage as embodied and reflected in such landmarks.

Those properties that have received official historic landmark status through both the desire of property owners and the assistance of the Historic Preservation Commission are listed on the Town of Clarence website. Any further questions regarding the commission, its members or applying for landmark status, can be directed to the Office of Planning and Zoning at 741-8933 or by emailing jbleuer@clarence.ny.us.