

An Invitation to the Clarence and Western New York Community

All of us experienced the tragedy of Flight 3407 in very different ways. Some were first responders, some have memories of the night of February 12, and almost all have stories to tell of the days that followed. This tragedy has not just affected Clarence, but has touched all of Western New York. Our response has resounded across the country speaking of compassion and humanity. It is important that we preserve our stories for ourselves and for future generations.

We invite community members to share their stories with us, no matter what their perspective. Stories may be shared orally or in written form.

We invite you to join us in the Community Room at the Clarence Public Library on the follow dates:
