

ERIE COUNTY AGRICULTURAL DISTRICTS INCLUSION OF VIABLE AGRICULTURAL LAND

2016 REPORT

FROM: ERIE COUNTY AGRICULTURAL & FARMLAND
PROTECTION BOARD

TO: ERIE COUNTY LEGISLATURE
NEW YORK STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
& MARKETS

PURSUANT TO: SECTION 303-B OF THE AGRICULTURE AND MARKETS LAW

OVERVIEW

Per section 303-b of New York Agriculture and Markets Law, the Erie County Legislature set the month of September, 2016 as the annual 30-day period to consider property owner requests for predominately viable agricultural land to be added to an agricultural district.

Section 303-b requires the Erie County Agricultural and Farmland Protection Board (AFPB) to report to the Erie County Legislature with its recommendations as to whether the land requested to be included in an agricultural district:

- consists of viable agricultural land as defined in 301(7) of New York Agriculture and Markets Law; and
- would serve the public interest by assisting in maintaining a viable agricultural industry within the district.

PROPERTY OWNER REQUESTS AND AFPB RECOMMENDATION

During the 2016 open enrollment period, the AFPB received 62 applications for the inclusion of 115 total parcels into Erie County's existing Agricultural Districts. The AFPB considered the below requests and based their recommendations upon Agricultural District Law, which states that parcels to be included in agricultural districts must be "land highly suitable for agricultural production" and which continue to be feasible for farming if conditions remain the same.

Each parcel requested for inclusion has been analyzed in detail by the active members of the AFPB. The Board has identified soil types and suitability for agriculture, type of operation, whether the parcel is owner-operated or rented, gross sales, surrounding land use, eligibility for agricultural assessment, consistency with zoning, local and regional planning documents, proximity to existing agricultural districts, and eligibility for inclusion pursuant to Article 25AA of Agriculture & Markets Law. This data is provided in the matrix included as Attachment 63.

Based upon the abovementioned criteria and data, the Board makes the following recommendations:

Welcome to the 'agrihood': homes built around working farms

The farm-to-table residential model involves homes built within strolling distance of small working farms, where produce matures under the hungry gaze of residents, where people can venture out and pick greens for their salads.

By Dean Fosdick
The Associated Press

Gated communities with houses clustered around golf courses, swimming pools, party rooms and fitness centers are common in many suburban areas. But homes built adjacent to functioning farms?

Welcome to "agrihoods" — pastoral ventures with healthier foods as their focus.

This farm-to-table residential model has been sprouting up everywhere from Atlanta to Shanghai. It involves homes built within strolling distance of small working farms, where produce matures under the hungry gaze of residents, where people can venture out and pick greens for their salads.

"Real estate developers are looking for the next big thing to set them apart," says Ed McMahon, senior resident fellow with the Urban Land Institute in Washington, D.C. "That gives them a competitive advantage."

There are many variations of the agrihood, he says. "Some developers rent acreage to farmers. Some set up non-profit C.S.A. (community-supported agriculture) programs. Some have the residents doing it (the growing) themselves."

Agrihoods frequently include farmers markets, inns and restaurants sited in communal hubs where the edibles are processed or sold.

A lot of things are driving the trend, McMahon says. "There's more interest in fresh foods. There's interest in good health. There's interest in local everything. It's also about enjoying the many conveniences that help you meet your neighbors."

Many purchasers are second-home buyers, retirees or parents of young children, McMahon says.

"They tend to be what I call the 'barbell generation,'" he says. "The millennial generation that wants fresh everything, that wants to know where their food is coming from. Also the senior generation, the baby boomers. They don't want big yards to take care of anymore."

Prices tend to be a lot cheaper for agriculture-centered dwellings than for homes facing golf courses.

Along with their higher operating costs, many golf course developments face concerns about water shortages; some are being pushed toward becoming food-based operations, says Matthew "Quint" Redmond, owner of Agriburbia LLB, a Boulder, Colo.-based business that designs, builds and operates farms.

"The issue is making more calories out of the water we have," Redmond says. "Growing things that are better for you. And fewer people are playing golf these days. We'll be seeing a lot of golf course conversions in the next 10 to 15 years."

Clay and Roz Johnson moved to a farm-centered community called Serenbe near Atlanta when their second child arrived and they wanted more space. About 70 percent of the 1,000-plus-acre property is green space, and their home abuts the barn.

"I'm looking at it out my back window," Clay Johnson says in a phone interview. "I'm watching some free-range chickens."

Most of Serenbe's landscape consists of edible, medicinal or native plants, says spokesperson Monica Olsen. "We have blueberry bushes at all of the crosswalks, three on-site restaurants and a seasonal farmers market. We just had our 10-year anniversary from when our first residents moved in."

Johnson says living close to the farm gives them a more personal relationship with their food.

"Our kids recognize the farmers and know who they are," he says. "The farm is operated like a business, so you can't just hop the fence and pull some vegetables. That's stealing. But my son has asked for and been given a handful of cherry tomatoes for the walk home.

"When we had our second child, I didn't cook for several weeks because neighbors kept bringing over food. It's not just a farm but it creates a sense of community just like a church does. We all meet at the farmers market on Saturdays."

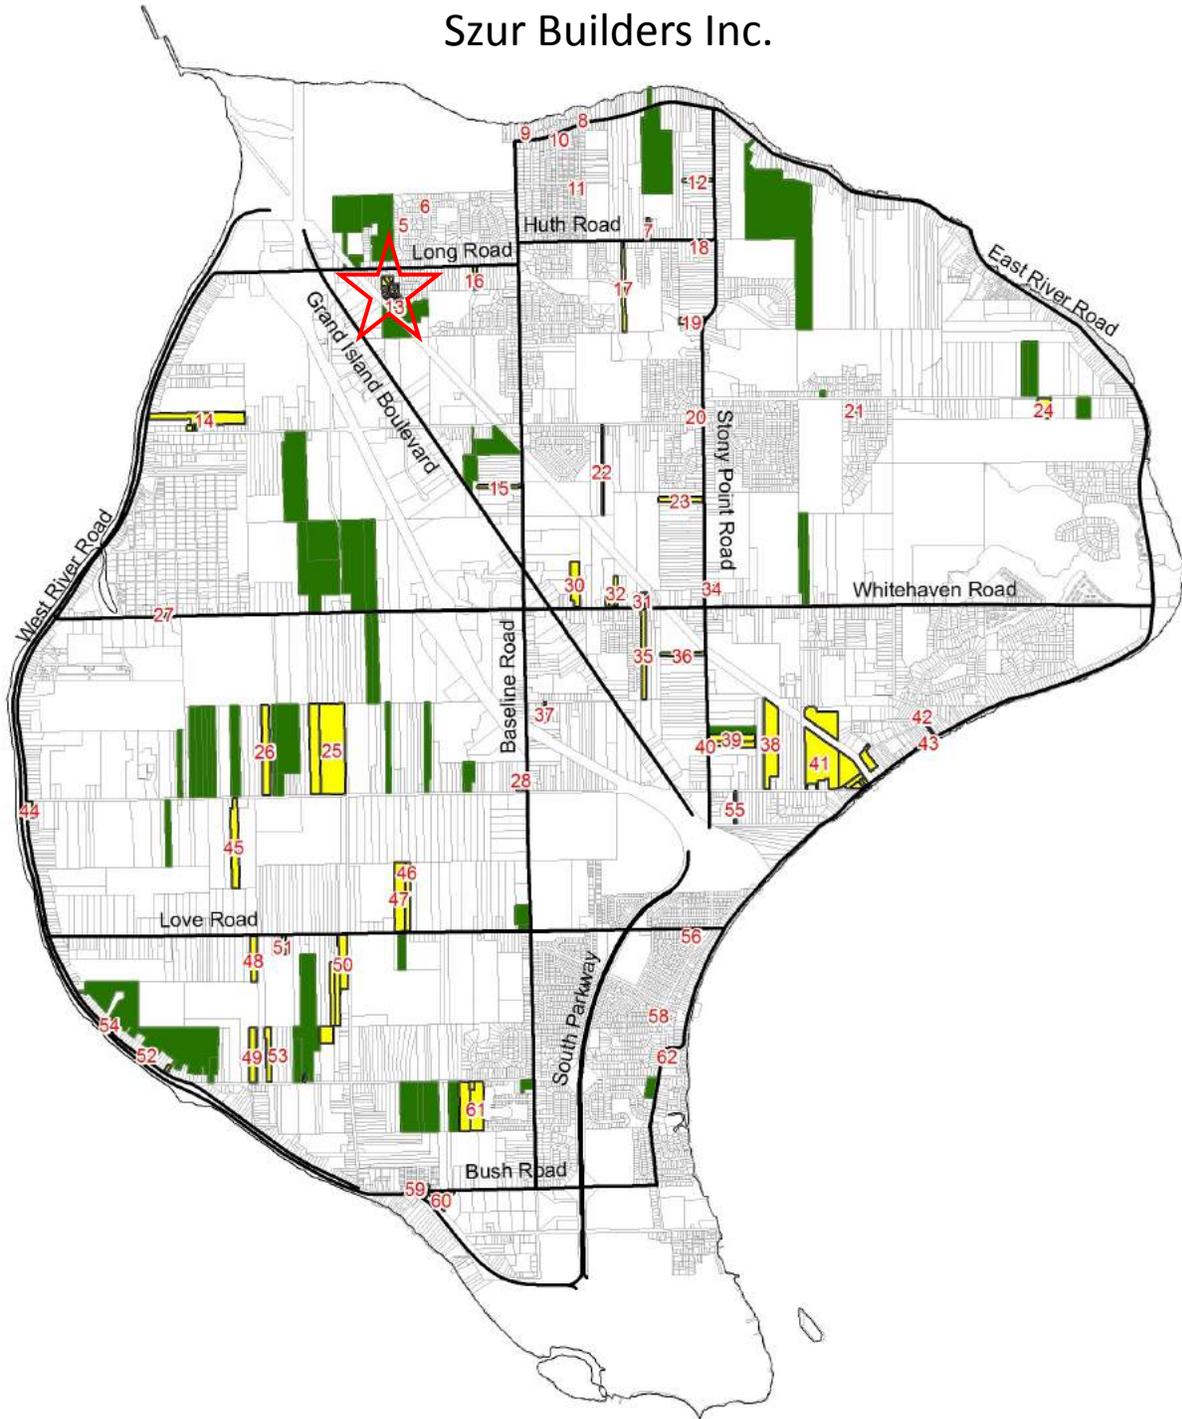

Workers prepare new growing beds at Table Mountain Farm near Golden, Colo. When mature, the flowers and edibles will be sold directly from the field for processing or to be enjoyed by people who live nearby. (Agriburbia LLB via AP)

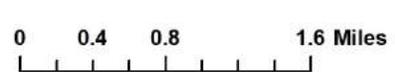

Tables are set up to host guests who will be served locally produced vegetables, fruits and flowers at Table Mountain Farm near Golden, Colo. (Agriburbia LLB via AP)

PART III: AGRICULTURAL BUSINESS DESCRIPTION

Describe the business that is operated or will be operated on the parcel(s) proposed to be added to the Agricultural District. Please note the principal enterprise as well.

AML section 301(2) livestock & livestock products:
 An agricultural animal permit was granted by the town on 7/17/1989 for the keeping of horses on my farm, and has been annually renewed for the past 27 years. I have made significant capital investments in the farm operation, including the construction of boarding facilities, animal management and farm maintenance equipment, and specialized horse training equipment. I rent stall space and keep horses for paid recreational riding on the farm. I intend to expand boarding facilities when my farm is included in the Ag district.

AML section 301(16) compost, mulch and biomass crops:
 I also sell at my farm and through the GI Farms Cooperative market bagged compost and mulch that is derived from plant matter grown and waste generated from the keeping of horses on my farm.

I am also the assistant farm manager for the SPCA Serving Erie County, and Ag animals are adopted to GI Farms Cooperative members through my farm.

PART III: AGRICULTURAL BUSINESS DESCRIPTION

Describe the business that is operated or will be operated on the parcel(s) proposed to be added to the Agricultural District. Please note the principal enterprise as well.

On this property I currently have an approximately 3 year old vineyard that will reach maturity next year (2017). The vineyard is expected to produce on the order of 500 pounds of grapes. We plan to produce products from the grapes and sell them through the Grand Island Farms Cooperative farm market.
 If added to the Agricultural District, I intend to rebuild an existing barn to accommodate storage of my tractor, bush hog, rototiller and other equipment.

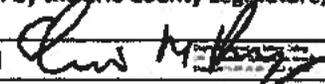

For reference only, I own and farm an additional 31 acre parcel in Ransomville NY containing approximately 10 acres of apple orchards from which I make cider and other products.

PART III: AGRICULTURAL BUSINESS DESCRIPTION

Describe the business that is operated or will be operated on the parcel(s) proposed to be added to the Agricultural District. Please note the principal enterprise as well.

The Pfohl and Bauman families have historically farmed the listed parcels for several decades. We previously raised cattle and grew several vegetable and cash crops on the farm. We continue to raise chickens for the sale of their eggs, and also sell produce through the Grand Island Farms Cooperative farm market. My son who holds a degree in agronomy from the University of Georgia has begun to restart the farm operation, but we are waiting to be included in the agricultural district before making further significant investments in farm infrastructure.

PART III: AGRICULTURAL BUSINESS DESCRIPTION

Describe the business that is operated or will be operated on the parcel(s) proposed to be added to the Agricultural District. Please note the principal enterprise as well.

After our property is added to the agricultural district, we intend to expand our operation by building a barn with a coop to raise chickens for egg and meat production. The chickens will be housed in an enclosed coop with a large run and occasionally free-ranged on the property. The eggs will be sold through the Grand Island Farms Cooperative. We would also increase our current vegetable production to allow us to sell hot peppers and hot sauce varieties through the Grand Island Farms Cooperative.
