The Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ) defines the safety-net as follows. The health care safety-net consists of a wide variety of providers delivering care to low income and other vulnerable populations, including the uninsured and those covered by Medicaid. Many of these providers have either a legal mandate or an explicit policy to provide services regardless of a patient's ability to pay. Major safety-net providers include public hospitals and community health centers as well as teaching and community hospitals, private physicians, and other providers who deliver a substantial amount of care to these populations.
